YIELD MASTERS™

Getting big yields isn't easy. It requires a lot of time, patience, and knowledge about your fields and what you're planting in them. You've got to really dig deep, get under the hood, and understand what it takes to get the best results no matter what your field throws your way. That's the spirit that embodies the AgriGold Yield Masters. A Yield Master isn't someone who just grows corn—it's someone who is devoted to their craft; dedicated to overcoming obstacles and staying ahead of the curve.
It's not a club; it's a way of life.

AgriGold's worldwide genetic research, along with our library of agronomic knowledge and current practices, gives you the tools to succeed. If you're planting AgriGold you already understand the importance of arming yourself with everything needed to minimize risk and maximize yield. You're taking the necessary steps to master your fields and reach new levels. It takes a certain kind of farmer to recognize that there's a difference between simply getting the job done and being the best you can at what you do.

Yield Masters work with their Corn Specialist and Agronomist to:

- Communicate with other AgriGold growers; share knowledge, tips, and success stories
- Keep up to date with the latest agronomy practices, special events, and promotions
- Raise overall farm yields
